Helpful Hints

Travel Truths

When visiting Los Alamos on the weekdays, remember our unique little town almost doubles in size as commuters and visitors spend the day with us. During mornings heading into town and evenings heading out of town Trinity Drive, Diamond Drive, Central Ave., and NM4 can be very busy. In addition, the lunch hour in downtown is a bustling time with friends, students, families, and coworkers eating together at the local restaurants. Plan ahead to avoid delays and make reservations if you're worried about time constraints.

Tips From the Locals

Spend the morning exploring Bandelier National Monument, then grab a delicious Green Chile Elk Cheeseburger or Indian Taco at the café for lunch. Spend the evening enjoying the patio at Bathtub Row Brewing Co-op, and grab dinner from the unique food trucks regularly available on site.

New Mexico True Burrito Byway

It should be no surprise that New Mexico claims the invention of the breakfast burrito. It is the wrapped wonder that brings spice to the morning! Join us for breakfast in Los Alamos at Chili Works or Viola's—official stops on the Burrito Byway—and learn the answer to the question: red, green or "Christmas?"

New Mexico True Certified

When you buy jewelry, textiles, arts and crafts, food, wine, beer and other products with the New Mexico True Certified mark, you know they are authentically "New Mexico True"—made, grown, or sourced right here in New Mexico with pride, love and the finest quality ingredients.

Uniquely Los Alamos

Celebrate the importance of fresh, high-quality ingredients at local eateries that tickle your taste buds. Enjoy the warmth and charm of the Blue Window Bistro in downtown Los Alamos for a local atmosphere. Get the best homemade bagels outside of New York at Ruby K's Bagel Café.

Brews, Cocktails & Wine

Thirsty for a good craft beer? Hang with the locals at Pajarito Brewpub & Grill! Or stop in at Boese Bros Brewery and grab a green chile grilled cheese sandwich to eat with your Secret City Manhattan from The Long Pour. Beef & Leaf features New Mexico beers and wines. Did someone say wine? Reserve a seat at one of Pig & Fig's themed wine dinners!

Welcome to Los Alamos...

We're glad you're here! Whether you're here on business, visiting friends and family, or checking out our trails, national parks, and unique brand of scientific heritage—we want to make sure every part of your visit is exceptional. Hungry? Want to relax with a beverage? Need to plug into Wi-Fi or pick-up a gift or memento to bring back home? This guide will tell you what we offer and where to find it.
